AN UPHILL MOVE

MSSD's move up--up the hill to its new academic complex, that is--finally began on August 30. The long-awaited and oft-delayed move will continue through September 3, with students scheduled to return to campus on September 20. An enrollment of 137 is expected.

The new building has capacity for 600 students. The first significant increase, though, will not take place until the dormitories are completed. The six residential buildings, the first of which will be completed after the first of the year, will provide living space for 400 students.

SMILE, YOU'RE ON CANDID CAMERA

The College has entered into a contract with Design and Production, Inc.--the people who brought us the LOOK OF SOUND--to produce a film to be used in recruiting prospective Gallaudet students.

Some filming has already taken place, but most of the on campus camera work will be done during the month of October. The finished product will be ready early next year.

If you have any questions, please contact Jerry Jordan or Judy Bortner.

KENDALL SCHOOL RESUMES

Classes resumed at Kendall School on August 23, with 165 students. Fourteen of the students are new to Kendall.

In addition, there are 13 new staff and faculty members: Kathryn Meadow, director of research and dissemination; Margery Somers, preschool program supervisor; John Spellman, middle school program supervisor; Deborah Lee Sinclair, primary department supervisor; Richard White, counselor in student and family services; and Mary Downs, speech therapist.

New teachers include: Susan Price, Christine Colbert, Silvia Golocovsky, Rita Ann La Porta, Peggy Wingert, Max Fitzgerald, and Cheryl Ann Shevlin.

PRIVILEGE OF CONFIDENTIALITY UPHELD

In a major ruling for the deaf, an Anne Arundel, Maryland Circuit Court Judge has ruled that an interpreter for the deaf cannot be ordered to disclose statements that a deaf suspect made to his attorney.

While most courts generally accept the notion of privilege which exists between an attorney and client as well as foreign language interpreters applied to sign language interpreters, the principle had never been formally spelled out in a court ruling anywhere in the United States.

The ruling involved a subpoena ordering the interpreter to appear before a county grand jury in connection with a murder investigation in which a deaf man was the only suspect. Much of the debate concerned the fact that the suspect's mother and brother were present at the meetings with the suspect's attorney and interpreter.

AROUND AND ABOUT

--If you have not completed your staff development needs survey, please do so promptly and return it to Bonnie Muller in Room 3B, College Hall. Your responses will be used to determine priorities for future programs.

--Surplus property, predominantly office furniture, is available to budget unit heads for use in their departments. Please refer to the memorandum of August 18, for a detailed list of items or contact Paul Smail at ext. 324.

AMONG OURSELVES

--Nancy Kensicki had a very productive sabbatical this past spring -- a baby girl, Diana Susan, born on June 8. Congratulations and welcome back.

--Bill Varrieur was elected vice president-president elect of the National Capital Association for Cooperative Education this summer.

--Daniel Bode, new faculty member in the Department of Audiology and Speech, will serve as the department's chairperson.

--Best wishes to Earl Higgins who left campus recently to undertake full-time study for his doctorate at the University of Pennsylvania.

--Good luck to Phil Kerstetter who has accepted a position with Wilmington College in Ohio, where he will serve as director of student life services.

--Richard W. Peterson has been named assistant in drama during Jane Wilk's leave of absence.
